Excerpt: . v things they have suffered, and no longer, by their adverse proceedings, break the unity and disturb the peace of society. I sorrow for them, lest they put off repentance to too late an hour, and be led into such a dilemma as to become fighters against God and his truth. Surely they stand in great need of the sympathy and prayers of the faithful. My bodily health is much the same, in general, as when I was with you, and my peace of mind and confidence in the Divine sufficiency steady and unshaken. To the Lord be the praise of his own works, whose power is over all in the truly obedient and humbly devoted soul. My love flows to all my friends, particularly to those united with me in the arduous labour of visiting families, Samuel Noble, Joseph Warner, and George...
